those allegations.

DEFENDANTS

10. Plaintiffs' allegation that they "will seek leave to amend this complaint to allege the true names and capacities of these Defendants when the same have been ascertained" is not a proper factual allegation and does not require a response. The Philadelphia 76ers lack knowledge or information sufficient to form a belief about the truth of the allegations in paragraph 17 of the Complaint regarding whether they “operate” the NBA team known as the Philadelphia 76ers because they engage natural persons to operate the company and, on that basis, deny those allegations.<sup>1</sup>

18. The Philadelphia 76ers admit that they administer accounts with Facebook, Instagram, X, YouTube, TikTok, and Snapchat, and that there is a page on the NBA.com website directed to the Team, which contains content relating to news, promotional videos, highlights, links to purchase merchandise using the Team’s brand, and game tickets. ## AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSES

42. Without assuming the burden of proof on any matters where that burden rests on Plaintiffs, the Philadelphia 76ers assert the following separate defenses to the Complaint:

FIRST AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Failure to State a Cause of Action)

43. Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, for failure to state a cause of action upon which relief may be granted.

SECOND AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE (Statute of Limitations, 17 U.S.C. § 507)

44. Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, by the relevant statute of limitations because the Complaint was filed more than three years "after the claim accrued." 17 U.S.C. § 507.

45. A cause of action ordinarily accrues when a plaintiff has a complete and present cause of action. In other words, the limitations period generally begins to run at the point when the plaintiff can file suit and obtain relief. A copyright cause of action thus arises or accrues when an infringing act occurs. Petrella v. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, Inc., 572 U. S. 663, 670 (2014). This standard principle of law and statutory interpretation is called the "injury rule." Under the injury rule, Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, because the uses of music for which they complain occurred more than three years prior to the filing of the Complaint. There is no reason in law or fact to deviate from the injury rule in this case. See Warner Chappell Music, Inc. v. Nealy, 601 U.S. 366 (2024) (Gorsuch, J., dissenting).

46. Even if a different rule (e.g., the "discovery rule") were applied, Plaintiffs' causes of action would be barred, in whole or in part, because Plaintiffs either knew or should have known about the allegedly infringing uses more than three years prior to the filing of the Complaint.

Plaintiffs, through their agents, first gave notice that they were aware of accused uses of music on March 3, 2021 (the “First Notice Date”), which is more than three years prior to the filing of the Complaint.

47. Subsequently, it has been revealed that Plaintiffs, through their agents, employed software programs to search the Internet for uses of music, and those programs created a database of accused uses (the “Archive”). On information and belief, the Archive identified uses which are the subject of this Complaint long before the First Notice Date. Despite numerous requests, Plaintiffs have refused to produce the Archive, or respond to queries about the date of creation of the Archive, when Plaintiffs and/or their agents first became aware of these alleged infringements, or when Plaintiffs engaged agents and/or software programs to search for potential infringements. Nonetheless, because Plaintiffs, through their agents, had all of the information necessary to file suit and obtain relief more than three years prior to the filing of the Complaint, their causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, by the statute of limitations.

THIRD AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Copyright Misuse)

48. Plaintiffs’ causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, because they engaged in copyright misuse. Among other things, Plaintiffs attempted to leverage their copyright registrations along with threats of attorneys’ fees in order to extort from the Team disproportionate payments for allegedly infringing uses. At the same time, Plaintiffs refused to provide the Philadelphia 76ers with the data revealing the totality of the music the Team allegedly infringed.

FOURTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Implied License)

49. Plaintiffs’ causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, because the Philadelphia 76ers possessed an implied license to use Plaintiffs’ alleged copyrighted works.

FIFTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Fair Use, 17 U.S.C. § 107)

50. Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, because any use the Philadelphia 76ers made of Plaintiffs' copyrighted work was a fair use.

SIXTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(First Amendment)

51. Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, because the Philadelphia 76ers' alleged conduct is protected by the First Amendment of the United States Constitution and applicable state constitutions.

SEVENTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Acquiescence)

52. Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of acquiescence.

EIGHTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Waiver and Estoppel)

53. Plaintiffs' causes of action are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrines of waiver and estoppel.

NINTH AFFIRMATIVE DEFENSE
(Laches)

54. Plaintiffs' claims for equitable relief are barred, in whole or in part, by the doctrine of laches.

55. The Philadelphia 76ers reserve the right to add, alter, and/or amend their Answer and their defenses as may later become available and apparent to them, and to withdraw any defenses that they determine to be inapplicable.
